

Simple Snare

(estian style)

To start the infinite loop let me state as is done in the training:

“Don’t believe anything I say.”

At the Top of the Recreation Pyramid (repeat performance and/or 'fun') of power and control, which 'causes Disappearance' (of what or whom?) sits:

Werner/Jack

Is he also?
German/Jew
Meaningless/Meaningful
Winner/Loser
At Cause/At Effect
Power/Enlightenment
Aggressor/Victim
Dominating/Submissive
Powerful/Powerless
Controller/Controlled
Evil/Good

He alone sits at the top of the pyramid at the point where the two sides are “one.” From his position, “over your heads,” he “enjoys watching the action between the two sides.”

What is the third side in this triangle? Is it all of those who believe they must choose one side of this, or the other, that there is no other choice. Is the third side actually that of the manipulated masses who follow the authoritarian leader without question? Are they those who do not think that both sides are actually losing sides in a lose/lose paradigm?

Is the re-creator of reality, in this 'Zen-like cuteness' (Fenwick) of 'It', the spirit of the integration of dysfunctional opposites? Is he the persona called 'Werner' because he identifies with the aggressor more than with the victim? Is that what he meant when he “crossed the line”? (Read Getting it 1976)

Is that what Fenwick meant when she posed the questions relating to opposites: “Can you get it? Can it get you?”

Are you getting it yet? Or are you going to continue to let it get me and get all of you as well, in the end? I can see ahead...can you?

Does Werner do that because “you can't change anything anyway so you may as well?”

Is he recreating the same scenario over and over again, as a kind of generic, metaphysical formula to which his trainees add their own personal concrete details?

Does he dominate everyone when he uses the conjunction 'and' at the top of this metaphysical pyramid and then tells the trainees they have to choose one side OR the other and "not kid themselves that they can have both"?

Is he kidding himself about that?

Does that "OR" produce a snare trap that catches all the trainees inside it?

Is that because they can't see what Werner/Jack is really doing at the top?

Is that because, as he told them, it is "over their heads?"

Does he do this because he considers himself, and ONLY himself, to be both Power and Enlightenment?

Could that be what he meant when he said "You can have it turn out any way you want it to turn out? Either way, I win."

Does he mean if the followers choose the Power side he wins as Werner and if they choose the Enlightenment side he wins as Jack?

He does say in the training that "it's about domination."

He says, things like "you just sit there and take what you get," do YOU hear that as an accusation with which he is enlightening you about your group behaviour? OR do you hear it as an instruction from your leader, who cannot be questioned?

Is he dominating everyone metaphysically?

Are some of his trainees trying to do the same thing by adding their own concrete details and then doing a kind of balancing act at the nexus of meaning?

Could this perhaps be a recreation of the same power dynamics that allowed the Holocaust to occur? Most people then could not make sense of what happened either until they looked back, with hindsight, through the corrective and clarifying lens of time, could they?

Could it actually be standard thinking and behaviour, on a conceptual level of meaning, for all of the domination types everywhere who operate with hidden agendas?

Could that be his point? Is that what this 'Re-creator' had in mind when he spoke of "experienced experience"?

Does he mean that by the time you see it, all the damage has already been done and it is too late to prevent it?

Could that be the sick 'joke' of which he speaks when he states that "life is a joke, it's a game of winners and losers"?

In the understanding of some, there is a spirit being, some call a demon, known as The Trickster. The definition of a "Trickster" is "a schizophrenic combination of good and evil."

What does the est-ee psych nurse think of this "interpretation" of mine regarding his 'covertly applied 'power?

Why don't you ask him while continuing to pretend to me, of course, that all of you know nothing, nothing at all officer/doctor? You're all just mystified aren't you?

Oh and here is my disclaimer as used inside the training as well:

"Don't believe anything I say."

That closes the loop so that the beginning and the end rest on the same point. Now you won't be able to make any further sense of it unless you know enough to get OUTSIDE of this system and into a saner system.

I don't really need to say "don't believe anything I say" to the locals of course since everyone here knows I am just crazy if I believe any of this really happened here. I have been told by many that nothing happened, and in fact, that became official with my diagnostic label didn't it?

So don't admit to anything. THAT way, I won't know and instead of getting understanding, I will get the UNDERstanding, as I believe was actually intended by my own aggressor/co worker with the hidden agenda of domination. My reality has been recreated by a combination of 'authority' and 'group consensus' hasn't it? This 'recreation' did 'cause my disappearance' right out of my own protagonist's circle and, as also stated in writing by him, I have been "replaced." Of course, I am not a thing; I am a person.

Are you still finding this to be as hilarious as you once did? Or does it seem a bit less of a knee-slapper now?

Well, let me quote the est-hole nurse back to you all then:

"In life, understanding is the booby prize.

Sorry."

Come on local psychiatric hospital staff...it's just a joke. Where is your sense of humour? Perhaps what you all need is a really good psychiatric assessment. Lucky for you, I have plenty of contacts in that department. Please let me help you in return for all of your 'help' for me.
